Fire leads to business evacuations

No one was injured following a fire that forced the evacuation of at least two businesses in the 1100 block of Main Street Thursday.

Firefighters arrived around 1:55 p.m. after employees in the Robin's Donuts, near the corner of Main Street and Redwood Avenue, noticed a burning smell from inside a wall in the back of the business.

"We smelled some kind of plastic burning," said employee Natalie Nolin. "All of a sudden the building just started smoking."

The neighbouring Shoppers Drug Mart was also evacuated and part of Main Street was closed while fire crews put out the fire.

A damage estimate was not available by press time.

No snow? No problem.

With the 43rd edition of the Festival du Voyageur just weeks away and no sign of enough white stuff to build their snow maze, the Molson Coors Snow Bar or their snow sculptures, organizers did what they had to do — they made their own snow.

"It's definitely been a challenging year," said festival director of operations, Marc Foidart on Thursday. "I'd say about 95 per cent of the snow we've used up to now is man-made snow."

The festival is using a snowmaking machine at Adrenaline Adventures on the Perimeter Highway to fix the bind Mother Nature has left them in.

"They've been making the snow on site and then we truck it in from there," explained Foidart, who estimates the process could add as much as $20,000 to the festival's budget. "It's roughly 1,400 yards of snow or about 200 trucks worth ... it's not cheap."

In years with more normal snow amounts organizers start getting the Voyageur Park ready in January using all the snow they can from Whittier Park and then trucking in the rest from other parts of the city. With the cost of making their own snow this year, crews are being very careful not to waste a single flake.

"Once we take off all the snow from the sculptures, we'll reuse it to build walls or other aspects of the park," said Foidart. "It's been a challenge, but we've got a great team ... so we've been able to pull through. "From a visitor point of view, they probably won't notice any difference at all."

The Festival du Voyageur runs Feb. 17-26.

► Crews with the Festival du Voyageur were busy building the Molson Coors Snow Bar with artificial snow at the festival site in Whittier Park on Thursday.

► Miguel Joyal works on his sculpture Wednesday afternoon.

- City police officers start foot patrol in downtown Winnipeg
- Drugs, drunks and aggressive panhandlers among problems targeted ► Const. Lorraine McDonald is one of eight officers who will be walking the beat downtown as part of the new Winnipeg Police Service Downtown Foot Patrol Unit.

The Winnipeg Police Service hope uniformed members walking the beat on downtown streets will make the area safer and encourage more Winnipeggers to come downtown.

The eight officers who make up the new Winnipeg Police Service Downtown Foot Patrol Unit started their patrols on Jan. 29.

"These are people that are going to work hard in the community to develop relationships, look at the problems in the community and try and solve

"It not only gives people peace of mind to feel safe when they see the men and women in blue, but it also creates that relationship where you can talk to them and have a bond. One of greatest assets we have when it comes to solving crime is the people."

MAYOR SAM KATZ

them," said Chief Keith McCaskill, who was joined by Mayor Sam Katz at the Public Safety Building to announce the new unit Thursday. "This is an important step for us."

McCaskill stressed the new unit — which will see officers on duty for both day and evening shifts seven days a week — will not replace the ongoing operations of the force's Division 11 Uniform Patrol and Community Support Unit already patrolling the downtown.

All eight officers volunteered for the unit, and after working a couple shifts, Const. Lorraine McDonald says it takes a certain type of officer to get out of the patrol car and walk the beat.

"It's a different type of policing, and I think getting to know people one on one makes a huge difference," said the nine-year veteran of the force. "Being out there on foot, a lot of people feel that I'm more approachable and they are approaching me."

The unit is part of a promise made by Mayor Sam Katz to add 58 more officers to the force during his October 2010 re-election campaign. He says 12 more officers would join the foot patrol unit in the spring, but there's no word on what area of the city they'll be assigned.

Family lauds debt-settlement fee legislation

Eight years ago, Charleswood resident Janet was $45,000 in debt and about to lose her house.

"My daughter (who was six at the time) was ill and needed special treatment, so we were flying back and forth to Toronto a lot," she said.

Janet, not her real name, said the rigours of scheduled treatment meant she had to give up her job, forcing the family to live partially on credit cards. Happily, the treatment was successful, but the bills were rolling in.

The family tried a debt counseling service, but almost $4,000 in up-front fees later, she and her husband still owed every dime, and they eventually declared bankruptcy.

Janet's story is one the reasons the provincial government has announced new regulations forbidding debt-settlement agencies to charge up-front fees. They must also become licensed and can't charge more than 10 per cent of the debt owed. The regulations come into effect Feb. 15.

"We want to be sure that people already struggling with debt don't find themselves paying large fees upfront with no guarantee the service will actually reduce their debt," said consumer affairs minister Jim Rondeau.

MURDER TRIAL

Victim's sister saw a stain

The sister of a woman whose husband is accused in her death says she saw a dark stain on a wall in the garage near where police believe the murder happened.

Betty Rowbotham told court the wall was clean before her sister Beverly died, but she noticed the stain a few days later.

Rowbotham is testifying in the trial of Mark Stobbe who is charged with second-degree murder in his wife's death north of Winnipeg in the fall of 2000.

The Crown alleges Stobbe killed her with a hatchet in the couple's backyard, dragged her to the garage and drove her body 20 kilometres away.

Stobbe, who once served as a senior adviser to former Saskatchewan premier Roy Romanow, has pleaded not guilty.

Labossiere convicted of murder

A violent family saga has come to an end after a Winnipeg jury convicted Jerome Labossiere of three counts of first-degree murder in the deaths of his elderly parents and 44-year-old brother.

The jury deliberated for nine hours before they returned the verdict Wednesday night.

However, about a dozen members of the Labossiere family who were in court for the ruling were visibly shocked, one of them breaking down in tears, when the jury acquitted co-accused Michel Hince on the same charges.

Jerome Labossiere will serve the mandatory sentence of life in prison with no chance of parole for 25 years for a crime that Justice Brenda Keyser called "monstrous."

She said it was hard to believe someone would arrange such murders in his own family for greed and profit.

The prosecution had argued that Jerome hired two men to kill his 78-year-old father Fernand, his 72-year-old mother Rita and his brother Remi in 2005 at their farmhouse near St. Leon, Man.

One of those men, Jeremie Toupin, 26, agreed to plead guilty to second-degree murder and received a sentence of life with no parole for 10 years in exchange for testifying against the others.

Audience reaction to the stage version has been positive, May said.

"People just love the show. I've been so happy with the responses. We get standing ovations just about every single show and people just eat it up."

Eastern Europe trapped by snow

► Death toll rises as killer cold and blizzards leave thousands stranded ► Temperatures reach -30 C

LUCA BRUNO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 11,000 villagers have been trapped by heavy snow and blizzards in Serbia's mountains, authorities said Thursday, as the death toll from Eastern Europe's weeklong deep freeze rose to 123, many of them homeless people.

The harshest winter in decades has seen temperatures in some regions dropping to -30 C and below, and has caused power outages, traffic chaos and the widespread closure of schools, nurseries and airports.

Those stranded in Serbia are stuck in some 6,500 homes in remote areas that cannot be reached due to icy, snow-clogged roads with banks reaching up to five metres. Emergency crews were pressing hard to try to clear the snow to deliver badly needed supplies, and helicopters were dispatched to some particularly remote areas in Serbia and neighbouring Bosnia.

On Bosnia's Mt. Romanija, near Sarajevo, a chopper thumped down in the small hamlet of Ozerkovići, where a single nun lives in a Serb Christian Orthodox monastery surrounded by just a few villagers.

Wrapped tight in a black jacket and a scarf, Sister Justina greeted aid workers at her monastery: "I live alone here," she said, adding "God will help me."

In Serbia, relief efforts are concentrated on evacuating the sick, on food delivery and gasoline distribution.

EU rules demand Assange be extradited: Lawyer

Sweden's public prosecutor was right to demand the return of Julian Assange, a lawyer told Britain's Supreme Court Thursday, saying that failing to hand over the activist would break with precedent and wreck European extradition rules.

Clare Montgomery, the lawyer for Sweden's prosecution service, struck back at Assange's legal team's argument that only impartial authorities, such as a judge, can properly issue European arrest warrants.

"The English notion of an arrest warrant issued by a court is very much an exception," she said.

Experts interviewed ahead of the case said the legal precedent gives Montgomery the upper hand in the trial. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Great leapin' groundhogs!

Six more weeks of what?

LOOKING FOR WINTER. Canada's groundhogs say the end of winter is just around the corner, and meteorologists agree that the country's furry forecasters are predicting the end of something that hasn't even begun.

Unseasonably warm temperatures from coast to coast have made winter a non-event for most Canadians, weather experts say, adding the unusual conditions have stymied their prognostications for months.

"The one thing uniting all Canadians right now is the question of 'Where's winter?' We're almost sending a search party looking for it," said Environment Canada senior climatologist David Phillips.

Egyptians protest soccer-riot deaths

► Police force remains a source of tension, accused of using heavy-handed tactics and resisting reform

Security forces clashed Thursday with stone-throwing protesters enraged by the failure of police to prevent a soccer riot that killed 74 people, as sports violence spiraled into a new political crisis for Egypt.

The deaths Wednesday night in a post-match stadium riot in the Mediterranean city of Port Said fueled anger at Egypt's ruling military and the already widely distrusted police forces. Many in the public and in the newly elected parliament blamed the leadership for letting it happen — whether from a lack of control or, as some alleged, on purpose.

Survivors of the riot described a nightmarish scene in the stadium. Police stood by doing nothing, they said, as fans of the winning home team, Al-Masry, attacked supporters of the top Cairo club, Al-Ahly, stabbing them and throwing them off bleachers.

The network of zealous Al-Ahly soccer fans, known as Ultras, vowed vengeance, accusing the police of intentionally letting rivals attack them because they have been among the most aggressive of Egypt's revolutionaries.

Syria draft resolution gains ground at UN

► Unclear whether changes will be enough to garner support from Russia, which can still veto the proposal

Western ambassadors on the UN Security Council on Thursday embraced a revised resolution aimed at stopping the bloodshed in Syria and predicted rapid approval after removal of an explicit demand that President Bashar Assad step aside.

The latest draft, obtained by The Associated Press, still "fully supports" the Arab League's Jan. 22 decision to "facilitate a political transition leading to a democratic, plural political system."

But it removes a clause calling for Assad to hand power to a deputy before a new government is created.

British Ambassador Mark Lyall Grant and

► Bashar Assad

French Ambassador Gerard Araud said they expected that a final version could be ready for a vote as early as Friday.

U.S. Ambassador Susan Rice was less optimistic. "This is still tough going, very much so," she said.

Russian Ambassador Vitaly Churkin did not comment on the revised text as he entered the meeting.

In an apparent effort to overcome Russian objections, the new version of the resolution no longer includes the explicit reference to Assad delegating his powers.

It also removes language calling for a new national unity government and for transparent, free elections — also important parts of the Arab peace plan.

The revised draft also deletes a paragraph calling on UN member states to take steps to prevent the flow of arms into Syria. Russia is a major arms supplier to Syria, a key regional ally since Soviet times.

Fingers pointed in citizenship gaffe

► Kenney blames bureaucrats for misleading ceremony ► Minister's office apologizes on air to Sun News

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney and the Sun News Network are laying the blame for a misleading televised citizenship ceremony squarely on the shoulders of federal civil servants.

The Canadian Press reported Thursday that six federal bureaucrats were drafted to pose as new Canadians for a reaffirmation ceremony broadcast on the TV channel last October.

Kenney's office had asked the department to organize the event on short notice, adding it to the 60 events bureaucrats had planned for Canada's Citizenship Week.

The co-hosts of the show, who say they were unaware of the presence of the stand-in immigrants, repeatedly referred to the group of 10 as "new Canadians" who had "finally" received their citizenship.

A reaffirmation ceremony, however, is an opportunity for existing Canadians to retake their oath.

Kenney blamed the incident on "logistical" problems.

"I became aware that in a reaffirmation ceremony last year following logistical problems that the situation was poorly handled," Kenney said in the House of Commons.

"I regret that, but that in no way should undermine the importance and value of special reaffirmation ceremonies which we encourage all Canadians to participate in."

► Alleged private citizens participate in a citizenship-reaffirmation ceremony in this photo posted on the immigration department's Twitter feed. Six federal bureaucrats were drafted to pose as new Canadians for the ceremony set up for the Sun News Network.

What happened

Documents released to The Canadian Press under access-to-information legislation show bureaucrats tried to convince Kenney's office and Sun News to abandon the ceremony idea.

- Kenney's office wound up asking the department to organize a simple reaffirmation ceremony.
- Kenney spokesman Kasra Nejatian said that at one point the minister's office had signalled the event would be cancelled for lack of participation, but that it was kept in play when bureaucrats insisted they had found 11 people to attend.
- Only three of those people showed up. But the show went on — featuring at least six federal bureaucrats.

MPs wear seal pins in support of embattled industry

The federal fisheries minister joined members of Parliament in showing their support for Canada's embattled sealing industry by wearing a lapel pin Thursday.

Keith Ashfield said the centuries-old commercial sealing industry is important to Canada's northern and eastern regions.

"Not only is it a humane and sustainable industry, it's also an industry that provides an important food source for our northern communities," he said during a brief ceremony on Parliament Hill.

ment Hill.

In December, the federal government confirmed that the world's largest buyer of Canadian seal products — the Russian Federation — had banned importing harp-seal pelts.

The European Union banned importing seal products in 2010, and the federal government has failed to deliver on a promise to open the Chinese market to Canadian seal meat.

Earlier this week, Liberal Senator Mac Harb said the Conservative government should be declaring the industry dead as he condemned Thursday's photo opportunity, called Seal Day on the Hill.

"The Conservative government is ignoring Canadian opposition to the commercial hunt and has turned a deaf ear to the international community and its boycott of commercial seal hunt products," Harb said in a statement.

"Instead of working towards a buyout of sealing licenses, the government is offering sealers only hollow promises of non-existent seal trade agreements with China, a doomed challenge of the European Union ban at the WTO, and another photo-op on Parliament Hill."

The pins were given to all members of the House of Commons by the government of Nunavut and the Nunavut Arts and Crafts Association.

Leaders from the community were in Ottawa for the Northern Lights 2012 Business and Cultural Showcase, where Ashfield tried on a sealskin jacket earlier in the day.

Hanging idea has lots of support, says Tory senator

A Conservative senator says he's been inundated with expressions of support for his unusual idea of helping murder convicts commit suicide.

Pierre-Hugues Boisvenu had made an apparently

Although he apologized immediately for the language he used Wednesday, Boisvenu was sounding a little less apologetic Thursday.

By that time he was saying he simply expressed an opinion many Canadians hold.

More rights for crime victims urged

The federal ombudsman for crime victims says they should have a right to attend parole hearings and get more information about the offenders who preyed on them.

Sue O'Sullivan also says the federal government should double the $100 surcharge levelled against criminals to finance restitution for victims.

She says that surcharge is routinely waived in the courts, but should be made mandatory.

O'Sullivan's first report since her appointment in August 2010 notes crime victims now may attend parole hearings, but are limited to reading a pre-approved statement.

She says they should have an automatic right to attend and should be given the option of video-conferencing or access to transcripts or recordings if they cannot attend in person.

And O'Sullivan says victims should be kept up-to-date about where offenders are serving their sentences, when they are up for release and how they have progressed in rehabilitation. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Facebook public stock not for just anyone

► Shares to trade publicly in about 3 months ► Limited supply, healthy demand likely to raise stock's value

Canadian Facebook fans may share everything from pictures of their meals to engagement announcements on the site, but they're unlikely to get in on its long-anticipated initial public stock offering.

It's often difficult to scoop up shares before they're listed on a public market and given the hype surrounding Facebook Inc.'s IPO, it's going to be harder for average investors to get shares at the initial price.

John O'Connell, CEO at money manager Davis Rea, says "99.9 per cent of Canadians aren't going to get any Facebook on the IPO."

The company's underwriters, who dole out the shares, grant access to the biggest of Canadian players. There are few Canadians or Canadian firms wealthy enough to have an account at the American investment behemoths Morgan Stanley, JPMorgan Chase and Goldman Sachs.

"They're only going to give it to their biggest, best client and even they're going to get very, very small amounts," O'Connell said.

Shares or not?

- Facebook said in its 200-page prospectus that it plans to raise an initial $5 billion US by selling a portion of its shares.
- Depending on reaction to the IPO, the company could be valued at $100 billion or even more.
- An initial offering price, will be determined by the level of investor interest, but it's estimated to be at between $30 to $35 per share.
- That would mean about 67 million shares in circulation, which scarcely covers the intense demand for the world's biggest social networking website.

Britain's oldest paper takes spotlight at Murdoch scandal inquiry

Police are investigating alleged email interception by Rupert Murdoch's Times of London, a British lawmaker said Thursday — dragging Britain's oldest national newspaper into the broadening scandal over press wrongdoing.

The country's media ethics inquiry has summoned the newspaper's editor to answer questions about the claims.

Labour Party legislator Tom Watson, who helped lift the lid on tabloid phone hacking, released a letter from police confirming they were investigating alleged email hacking by the Times. Watson, a member of Parliament's culture, media and sport committee, had written to police asking them to take up the issue.

The letter from Det. Supt. John Levett, head of the force's computer-hacking investigation, is dated Jan. 25, and tells Watson that "the concerns raised within your letters are under investigation and officers ... are dealing directly with the victim."

The 226-year-old Times has acknowledged that a former reporter tried to intercept emails in 2009 to unmask an anonymous policeman who blogged as NightJack. Editor James Harding told the media ethics inquiry last month that the reporter had acted on his own and had been reprimanded. The paper later published the blogger's name, but Harding insisted it had been obtained legally. London's Metropolitan Police confirmed Thursday that computer hacking investigators "are in contact with Mr. Watson in relation to specific issues he wishes to raise." The Times declined to comment.

New WestJet carrier to draw more traffic

The new short-haul carrier WestJet Airlines Ltd. is considering would operate separately from the main airline but help draw more traffic into its network, CEO Gregg Saretsky said Thursday.

The move would benefit the main network, as it would draw more passengers from smaller destinations into major hubs, such as Calgary. Saretsky told an investor conference in New York. WestJet announced last month it's considering a regional carrier that would give it a presence in smaller markets where competitor Air Canada is currently the only game in town. THE CANADIAN PRESS watching are the multimillion-dollar TV ads. As for the game? I've got the Giants by three.

2 I Hate Everyone: No, not me. It's a new book by Matthew DiBenedetti called I Hate Everyone, which covers everything "from rich people who are dicks, to guys named Rich who go by Dick." Sounds like a book you'll hate to love. Or love to hate. Also follow him on Twitter @whatihatetoday. Sample tweet: "I HATE when my DVR cuts off the last 30 seconds of the show." Amen, brother.

3 'Destroy America' tweet: Two British friends were detained by Homeland Security after landing in L.A. for a vacay for tweeting they would "destroy America." The pair said "destroy" is slang for partying, but it was to no avail. They were refused entry to the U.S. No word on whether they watched Team America on the plane ride back to Britain the next day.

4 The River: ABC's new paranormal drama about a doctor (played by Canada's Bruce Greenwood) who goes missing deep in the Amazon debuts next Tuesday and is being called one of the scariest shows. Ever. Definitely one of the most hyped. They already have 200,000 fans on their Facebook page, and the show hasn't even started.

5 PJs go outside: With pyjamas as outdoor wear becoming a worldwide trend, clothing companies are stocking up on comfy apparel that's taking the indoors out. Some cities and school districts are trying to ban PJs as outdoor wear while others ask what the big deal is. I'm not sure how to feel about this. I need to sleep on it ... in my jeans and plaid shirt.

6 Facebook IPO: Facebook, which has a valuation of somewhere between $75 and $100 billion, is filing the necessary papers to allow it to go public. FB has more than 800 million users, or one-seventh of the world's entire population. When there is a Facebook IPO, its employees are going to be stinking rich. The next time my best-of-three doubles Ping-Pong match goes to a final set, I won't complain.

8 I Mother Earth: The Canadian alt-rock band recently ended an eight-year hiatus by announcing they were playing a one-off show at The Sound Academy in Toronto in March. This week they tweeted out @IMENation2012 that "IME sells out @soundacademy 5 hrs into public sale." As they asked on their IME blog, "The question now becomes: What do we do next?" A tour?

9 My wife = 40: My amazing wife, Christi, said no surprises on her birthday. So I'm not going to surprise her at all by wishing her a happy 40th birthday (it's on Feb. 8) in a newspaper column that goes across Canada. No way.

PHOENICIA, NEW YORK. Here's a shutterbug who can catch bullets! This is a stunning image by a retired police officer who has captured a gun pellet flying through a falling water drop. Dennis Havel, 63, took on this seemingly impossible task after one of his friends bet him $50 he couldn't do it. ●MWN

"I'm not an expert photographer — it was more of a mathematics and physics thing."

DENNIS HAVEL EXPLAINS. HE USED A CONTRAPTION WITH INFRARED DETECTORS. WHEN THE DROPLET WAS RELEASED, IT BROKE A BEAM TO START A SEQUENCE IN A TIMER MODULE. ABOVE, YOU SEE THE RESULT.

A perfect shot? Get the ruler out

PHYSICS. It wasn't a knack for firearms that helped Havel get the desired shot. He had to calculate how long the droplet would take to fall 33 centimetres as the pellet was firing across. "I have a timer set so it fires the flash a couple of thousands of seconds after the drop is released," he said. ●MWN metres per second — the speed of the flying pellet. After a valve has released the droplet through an infrared sensor that triggered the gun and the flash, the whole process took 28 milliseconds.

Synopsis

Daniel Radcliffe plays lawyer Arthur Kipps. Leaving his son behind in London, the widower travels to a remote English village to settle the affairs of Alice Drablow. Ms. Drablow may have shuffled off this mortal coil but the locals are convinced she still haunts her old house. Worse, because she still mourns her son Nathaniel, a toddler who drowned on her estate, whenever she is seen, a village child dies.

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN

Richard: Mark, I really like haunted house movies and as haunted houses go, this is a doozy. It's remote, old and rambling. Doorknobs turn by themselves, faces appear in windows and there are stuffed monkeys and creepy Victorian children's wind-up toys everywhere. With toys like this to play with it's a wonder Victorian kids weren't scared half-out-of-their-minds all the time. Did this movie creep you out?

Mark: Creep me out? Definitely. The movie is a masterpiece of atmospheric dread. It's not so much about what happens onscreen, but what is about to happen onscreen. Let's face it, there's something creepy about Victorians to begin with. Did it scare me? No, I just don't have a fear of the supernatural. And although I loved the look and feel of the film, with its peeling paint and fog that you can sense at the nape of your neck, the creaky plot, reminiscent of those remakes of Japanese ghost films of the mid-90's, did not excite me. But let's talk about the 800 lb wizard in the room, Mr Radcliffe. Richard, was this film a good choice for him?

RC: Well, once again Radcliffe finds himself butting heads with the supernatural. It's not exactly Harry Potter Meets the Woman in Black, but it's almost as entertaining and I think it will act as a smooth transition from child star to adult. He's giving people what they want, a heroic figure, like Harry, but one with added dimensions — he's a widower and a troubled soul who finds a new lease on life through adversity. A smallish gothic horror film might not have been the obvious choice for Radcliffe's coming out party, but it was a good one.

MB: I'm glad he chose a film so very British to do; it keeps him true to his roots. But if there's any doubt we're dealing with a true star whose talents will last, it's Radcliffe's 20 minute dialogue-free set piece in the middle of the movie. He holds our attention with only his physical presence and expressions. Impressive, don't you think?

RC: He really anchors the film. It's difficult not to see Harry Potter in his face but here he takes a good stride to step away from the type-casting of his most successful role.

MB: Loved Radcliffe, loved the meticulous direction; just wished the storyline weren't so thin and derivative

Paint it black

- Radcliffe goes up against supernatural again and does a good job, too
- Our reviewers deem the film a 'masterpiece of atmospheric dread'

Johnson tackles franchises

► His latest movie role takes him to Mysterious Island in Journey 2

SCENE@METRONews.CA

METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

With Journey 2: the Mysterious Island, Dwayne Johnson steps into a franchise already in progress — something he's making a habit of after last year's Fast Five and this summer's G.I. Joe: Retribution. And it's a habit the former wrestler is more than happy with, as it's earned him quite a unique nickname.

Once again, you're coming into a franchise that's already up and running. Is this part of a particular career plan?

No, it was never a career decision to join franchises. What was a very concerted decision was to come into a film and elevate it.

And I've got to tell you, this is where I've been fortunate because the franchises that I have been involved with — G.I. Joe, Fast Five and now Journey — had a built-in audience.... A studio executive the other day said, "You are the most legitimate Franchise Viagra in Hollywood I've ever seen."

It seems like you understand the business of Hollywood. I think, honestly, I'm going to give a lot of credit to the business I grew up in, and that was the business of professional wrestling.

While it may not be everyone's cup of tea — understandably so — in its rawest essence, wrestling is about entertaining the audiences without ego.... So I think in that spirit, that's allowed me to go from being the Tooth Fairy to a hunter of men.

Did you get a chance to talk to Brendan Frasier before taking on the role?

Good question, but no, we never had any dialogue.... There was a lot of work that had to be done because, you know, Brendan has a certain style that works for him — and audiences love that, by the way. And the success of the first movie proved that. But I have a much different style from Brendan, so it required some work from the ground up.

Big Miracle
Genre: Romantic drama

Director: Ken Kwapis

Stars: Drew Barrymore, John Krasinski

🌐🌐🌐½

Based on a global attempt to save three whales caught in the Arctic ice in 1988, Big Miracle combines schmaltzy, feel-good, pro-environmental fare with a surprisingly complex, entertaining cast of characters.

As the giant mammals attract international interest, everyone from activists (Drew Barrymore) to oil executives join together for the cause. It'd all be excessively campy except for the film's self-awareness and slight hand at delivering some genuine suspense and fun. STEVE GOW

Albert Nobbs
Genre: Drama

Director: Rodrigo Garcia

Stars: Glenn Close

Glenn Close stars in Albert Nobbs, about a 19th-century Irish woman living as a man in order to work in a Dublin hotel. Under a tight haircut and lightly applied prosthetics, Close disappears into the meek, fastidious little creature and makes it completely plausible that Nobbs could pull one over on her bosses, co-workers and guests.

The rest of the film plays dress-up as well, with what feels like a Masterpiece Theater episode masquerading as a big Oscar film. NED EHRBAR

Chronicle
Genre: Drama

Director: Josh Trank

Stars: Dane DeHaan, Alex Russell, Michael B. Jordan

First-time director Josh Trank takes a genre that was quickly careening into gimmick territory — the found-footage/POV style of Cloverfield — and injects new life into it with his debut, Chronicle.

Of course, it helps that one of his three teenage main characters, outcast Andrew (Dane DeHaan) is something of a cinephile and obsessive self-documentarian, which means a distinct lack of shaky camerawork for Andrew.

And it further helps that Andrew and his pals (Alex Russell and Michael B. Jordan) develop telekinetic powers after a run-in with a mysterious glowing object buried under a field. Before long, Andrew realizes he can control his camera with his mind.

The story, as well, is a refreshing take on old territory — what happens when everyday people develop superpowers.

Only here, there are no spandex suits or sense of community service. Apparently, with great power really comes great mischief and petty retribution. It's a much more believable depiction of teenagers' lives turning into comic books, and much more enjoyable.

C'mon Demi, wasn't Ashton young enough?

► Source claims hard-partying 49-year-old had her sights set on High School Musical star Zac Efron ► Another says she was mixing pills with Red Bulls

Demi Moore's recent hospitalization didn't quite come as a surprise to those who were close to her, reports Us Weekly.

It seems her split from Ashton Kutcher had her craving the company of a younger crowd that she wasn't equipped to keep up with.

"She's been really down, and she's surrounding herself with young people to make her feel better," a source tells the magazine.

"She's been mixing pills and Red Bulls, among other things."

We want to feel for De-mi and her impossibly flawless 49-year-old skin. After spending the past few years with Kutcher — who, although 33, seems to only own cargo pants and flip-flops — the transition to adulthood must be tough. But moving in on Zac Efron? Too far, lady. According to another source, she was pursuing the High School Musical star at a recent house party looking "wired and gaunt."

Listen, Demi: Inappropriately hitting on Zac Efron while tipsy is my deal — and I have The Word archives to prove it.

Becks' naked days are over

David Beckham wants the world to know he will no longer be hanging out at home in the buff.

"My naked days are over," Beckham says while unveiling his new line of underwear for H&M, according to Hollyscoop.

"I definitely walk around the house in my underwear. But not naked. With the boys it's not a problem because they're naked all the time but with a little girl now, it is different."

Her kids better be girls or 'trannies'

Blake Lively is looking forward to having kids one day, and given her extensive wardrobe, she's hoping they turn out a particular way.

"I hope to have a few girls one day," she tells Elle Magazine.

"If not girls, they better be trannies. I have some amazing shoes and bags and stories that need to be appreciated."

Celeb spotting

Indiana – a sports mecca, yes, but celeb magnet? Not so much. That will change with this weekend's Super Bowl parties.

Madonna will be there. Alec Baldwin is hosting the NFL Honors, featuring Lenny Kravitz; Snoop Dogg, Nas and J. Cole are expected to perform at parties; and Steven Tyler and Carrie Underwood are performing.

Forgive me, football fans. This Sunday, I'll be more interested in whether Madonna can strut her way through halftime without a wardrobe malfunction than I'll be in who wins the Super Bowl.

Sadly, televised sporting events don't call for haute cuisine, so booze pairings can get pedestrian. A balanced ale or mass market lager beer make a good fallback position for manly junk food. The fun starts when trying to find an all-purpose wine to partner with those Super Bowl eatables.

The crisp, bubbly goodness of a drier sparkling wine (think a mid-priced Spaniard) goes well with salty snack foods like popcorn and potato chips.

If you're serving a plate of wings pour a glass of white, medium dry German riesling.

When it comes to nachos, I prefer a white wine that emulates the refreshing qualities of a good brew. Familia Zuccardi's 2011 Fuzion Chenin Torrontés ($7.75 - $9.99) from Argentina is off-dry with a juicy blend of green fruit that ends with a lick of white pepper. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. Snack touchdown!

► Enjoy a delicious treat from the both teams' hometown stadiums

DINNER EXPRESS

EMILY RICHARDS
FOOD@METRONEWS.CA

As a salute to Super Bowl competitors, the New York Giants and the New England Patriots, I've created recipes popular in both teams' stadiums.

New England Clam Chowder

Preparation:

1 Drain clams, reserving 1 1/4 cups (300 mL) of juice. Chop clams; set aside. Combine clam juice with bottled juice.

2 In pot, cook bacon over medium high heat, stirring 5 mins. or until crispy. Add onion, garlic and thyme; cook 3 mins.

or until soft. Stir in sherry until evaporated. Stir in flour and cook 1 min, or until absorbed.

3 Add clam juice and bring to simmer, stirring until slightly thickened. Add potatoes and bay leaf. Cover and simmer gently 15 mins.

4 In saucepan, simmer cream with chopped clams, 5 mins. Remove from heat. Stir into pot to mix; simmer 10 mins. for flavours to combine. Season with pepper.

Beer Braised NY Brisket Sandwich

Preparation:

1 Scatter onions in roasting pan. Pour beer over top; sprinkle with garlic. Place beef on top.

2 In bowl, stir ketchup, horseradish, mustard, molasses, Worcestershire sauce, pepper; spread over brisket. Cover and braise in 325 F (160 C) oven 3 hrs. Remove to cutting board; slice. Whisk cornstarch into water.

3 Place roasting pan over medium high heat and bring to simmer. Stir in cornstarch mix and cook, stirring 1 min. or until slightly thickened. Return sliced beef to pan; toss with sauce. Serve on buns with cheese and peppers. EMILY RICHARDS IS A PROFESSIONAL HOME ECONOMIST, COOKBOOK AUTHOR AND A TV CHEF. VISIT EMILYRICHARDSCOOKS.CA.

Untangling those Super Bowl numerals

Kids "LOL" and "OMG" each other all day, but ask them to decipher the XLVI of this year's Super Bowl and you might as well be talking Greek.

They may know what X means, or V and I, but Roman numerals beyond the basics have largely gone the way of cursive and penmanship as a subject in schools.

Students in high school and junior high get a taste of the Roman system during Latin (where Latin is still taught, anyway). And they learn a few Roman numerals in history class when they study the monarchs of Europe. But in elementary school, "Roman numerals are a minor topic," said Jeanine Brownell of the early mathematics development program at Erickson Institute, a child-development graduate school in Chicago.

That's not how Joe Horrigan remembers it. "I went to Catholic school. I still have bruised knuckles from not learning them," said the NFL historian and spokesman for the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

What's wrong with good ol' 46, as in this year's Super Bowl between the Giants and the Patriots on Sunday?

"Number 46, just kind of sounds like an inventory," said Horrigan, who is LX years old. "Those Roman numerals, they're almost like trophies."

The use of Roman numerals to designate Super Bowls began with game V in 1971, won by the Baltimore Colts over the Dallas Cowboys 16-13 on Jim O'Brien's 32-yard field goal with five seconds remaining. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Halftime shows to remember

► With Madonna headlining this year's Super Bowl Halftime Show, Metro's Pat Healy looks back at the Top 5 performances from past years ► No, marching bands didn't make the list

U2, 2002

It was a few months after the 9/11 attacks, and this song set from Dublin's finest did a heroic job of honouring those who died that day. It also saluted the country U2 has always wished it was from, as Bono revealed an American flag close to his heart. Criticize Bono all you want for pandering, but it's hard not to get misty as the names of victims scroll down a huge screen as U2 plays.

Prince, 2007

His royal purpleness has always been known for a stadium-sized ego. What made this performance unique is that despite performing on a stage shaped like the symbol that once served as his name, the dude did a medley of songs, only three of which were his. He touched others by Queen, Bob Dylan, the Foo Fighters and more. But, being Prince, made all of them his own.

Bruce Springsteen & the E Street Band, 2009

To condense a Springsteen concert experience into 13 minutes sounds preposterous. But the Boss was able to fill a four-song suite with a whole lot of hokey fun, including a gospel choir, a flag-throwing ref, a knee-slide across the stage, some mic-stand gymnastics and the return to the stage of Big Man Clarence Clemons.

Michael Jackson, 1993

This show by the King of Pop would change the way networks programmed halftime. This was MJ just before he was accused of sexually abusing children. It's eerie now to hear him say, "no one should have to suffer, especially our children," but the performance itself was touching (not the bad kind) as he sang Heal the World, and the crowd held up placards to form drawings by kids.

Janet Jackson & Justin Timberlake, 2004

Seriously, we were really supposed to believe that Janet Jackson just happened to be wearing a metal sunburst around her areola? Regardless of how planned or unplanned the "bet I'll have you nekkid by the end of this song" ending was, the duet with Justin Timberlake on Rock Your Body definitely still holds up a whole eight(!) years later.

Super Bowl Sippin'

Trini Cherry Shandy

- 1½ oz Denizen Rum
- ½ oz St. Germain Elderflower
- ½ oz Lemon Juice
- 1 tsp Maraschino Liqueur
- Cherry Lambic
- Hefeweizen

Pour all ingredients, except beer, into a mixing tin. Add ice and shake. Strain into a tall glass and top with equal parts Cherry Lambic and Hefeweizen. Garnish with a lemon wedge.

Dutch Air Mail

- 2 oz Denizen Rum

- ½ oz honey syrup*
- ½ oz lime juice
- Dutch lager beer (Heineken or similar)
- Splash of pink grapefruit juice

Pour all ingredients, except beer, into mixing tin. Add ice and shake. Strain into a tall glass and top with beer. Garnish with a grapefruit peel over the glass. (*Cut 2 tbsp. honey with 1 tbsp. hot water and stir or shake.)

Bombs Away

- 1 oz Captain Morgan
- ½ oz TY KU Sake Black
- ¼ oz TY KU Citrus Liqueur
- ½ oz simple syrup
- 4 oz Hoegaarden

Pour beer into a pint glass. In a separate double shot glass, combine the rest of the ingredients and serve separately. To drink, drop shot glass in beer and drink together. Want to turn your drink into a game? Take a sip whenever a team scores or whenever a quarterback throws a bomb and it's caught. ► METRO

'A good test for him'

Rob Gronkowski practised with the New England Patriots for the Super Bowl for the first time Thursday. Now coach Bill Belichick is waiting to see how the All-Pro tight end's injured ankle responds.

Gronkowski, recovering from a high sprain in his left ankle, participated on a limited basis for the first time since being injured Jan. 22 in the third quarter of the 23-20 win over the Baltimore Ravens in the AFC championship game.

"He did some things. He didn't do everything," Belichick said. "We'll see how he is (Friday). I think that will be the big key."

Gronkowski, who set an NFL single-season record for tight ends with 17 touchdown catches, took part during the second half of the nearly two-hour practice for Sunday's championship game against the New York Giants.

"It was fine," Belichick said, "It was a good test for him, too, at least. At least he was out here and did some things to see how it feels. We'll see how it goes."

▶ New York's Osi Umenyiora goes through drills with teammates during practice on Thursday.

All hands on deck for N.Y.

▶ Giants have everyone at practice again with Nicks, Webster, Williams taking part

Running back Ahmad Bradshaw practised for a second straight day and three other players were allowed to practise without restrictions as the New York Giants completed their second workout in Indiana in preparation for the Super Bowl on Thursday.

Cornerback Corey Webster (hamstring), wide receiver Hakeem Nicks (shoulder) and special-teamer/linebacker Jacquian Williams (foot) all practised fully, according to a pool report. They were limited Wednesday.

Bradshaw, who has a broken bone in his right foot, and defensive end Osi Umenyiora (ankle/knee) were the only Giants who were limited in the 88-minute practice on the University of Indianapolis' indoor practice field.

The report also said Eli Manning was sharp during passing drills.

Bradshaw, who hasn't practised on consecutive days since returning from his foot injury in early December, tripped going through the line on a running play early in the session. But he hopped up and was able to continue.

"It looked like he tripped over the fullback's foot," coach Tom Coughlin said. "But he's fine."

Coughlin said the team's energy level, enthusiasm and excitement are obvious.

"They're really excited to practice for the game,"

Coughlin said. "I think they've done very well. This was a good day of preparation."

Manning was sharp in the final two first-unit offensive possessions. He completed 10 of 11 throws in a two-minute drill held against the Giants' first-team defence, moving the offence briskly downfield.

GIANTS TO WATCH

ELI MANNING, QB

▶ Had best regular season of career, set NFL record with 15 fourth-quarter TD passes. Has 103.1 passer rating in playoffs, with eight TDs and one interception

AHMAD BRADSHAW, RB

▶ Battling back and foot injuries, but shows up nearly every week. Has more power than size might indicate, also has nice burst.

HAKEEM NICKS, WR

▶ A deep threat who also can break shorter passes into long gains. Uses big hands and long arms to fight off defenders for passes.

JUSTIN TUCK, LDE

▶ Leader of defence, has fought through series of injuries and is playing his best ball now. Can play anywhere on line in passing situations.

COREY WEBSTER, LCB

▶ Best cover cornerback on Giants. Could be matched up at times with one of New England's dangerous TEs.

So you think you can dance in the end zone?

► Patriots tight end Hernandez may celebrate with merengue, hopes Giants wide receiver Cruz doesn't get a chance to use his salsa moves Move over salsa-specialist Victor Cruz. Aaron Hernandez may need room to show his merengue moves in the end zone.

The duelling dancers are practising the steps that they hope will lead to touchdowns at the Super Bowl and give the NFL showcase the look of a hard-hitting episode of Dancing With the (Football) Stars.

The versatile Hernandez has twisted his way downfield for the New England Patriots — changing direction after making catches and swerving by frustrated pursuers on a 43-yard run playoff run from the backfield against Denver. Now he's heard suggestions that he break out the salsa should he score a touchdown on Sunday, just as Cruz does with the New York Giants.

"They told me to do the salsa and I was joking around, saying maybe I'll do the merengue," a smiling Hernandez said Thursday, three days before the Super Bowl. "But that's his style and I respect him doing that and that's also a shoutout to the Hispanic community."

"But he's a good player and, hopefully, he doesn't get too many salsa dances this week."

Cruz sidesteps the idea of a Sunday Night Fever dance-off with Hernandez.

► Victor Cruz performs a dance as he celebrates after the Giants' wild-card win over the Falcons.

"I just want to get in the end zone and win this football game," he said.

Hernandez is used to playing second fiddle as "the other" tight end in the Patriots dynamic combo.

ankle has been in the spotlight ever since the All-Pro sprained it Jan. 22 in the AFC championship game.

Before that, Gronkowski's big hands that rarely drop a football drew the attention. He set an NFL

"I've been ready to play since they told us we're playing in the Super Bowl."

single-season record for tight ends with 17 touchdown catches, usually followed by a powerful spike.

"I'm sure he'll be fine" for the game, Hernandez said. "Everyone knows he's a beast and he'll definitely be a huge impact in this game."

Hernandez, faster and shifter than the bulldozing Gronkowski, had a pretty good season, too. He caught 79 passes for 910 yards and seven touchdowns. But he doesn't mind getting less attention.

"I've never been that type of person and the way our relationship is, we're so close that we don't even think about it like that," Hernandez said.

"I'm not a huge media guy, as you know, so he can have all the media he wants. You can talk to him and I know he loves it."

Pierce sticks with Bombers

His contract was scheduled to expire Feb. 16, but Buck Pierce never expected he'd be testing CFL free agency this off-season.

The veteran quarterback opted to stay put Thursday, re-signing with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Contract terms weren't made available but Pierce reportedly received a three-year deal.

And Pierce, who is entering his eighth CFL season and third in Winnipeg, said there was never a question in his mind regarding where he'd be playing football in 2012.

"No, there really wasn't because both parties wanted to make this work," Pierce said. "We didn't expect it to take so long ... but we both wanted it to get done the right way that would work best for both of us."

"There was never any doubt in my mind that it wouldn't get done. It's a good day for both me and the organization."

It was also a good day for Bombers GM Joe Mack, who signed a contract extension that will keep him with the CFL club through the 2014 CFL season.

Pierce, 30, registered career highs in 2011 in starts (16), completions (261), attempts (411), yards passing (3,348) and yards rushing (324) in leading Winnipeg (10-8) atop the East Division standings. THE CANADIAN PRESS

► Pavelec makes 30 saves in win over Lightning ► Byfuglien returns

Kyle Wellwood scored 3:14 into overtime to lead the Winnipeg Jets past the Tampa Bay Lightning 2-1 on Thursday night.

Wellwood scored from in close off a left-circle pass from Blake Wheeler.

Wheeler also scored for the Jets, who had lost seven straight games at Tampa Bay dating to the team's days in Atlanta. Ondrej Pavelec finished with 30 saves.

Victor Hedman scored and Mathieu Garon stopped 22 shots for the Lightning, who snapped a season-best five-game winning streak. Garon fell to 5-1 overall against the Atlanta/Winnipeg franchise.

Hedman tied it 1-1 at 10:34 of the third from the low left circle after taking a nifty neutral zone touch pass by Martin St. Louis. The defenceman snapped a personal 25-game goal drought dating to Oct. 22 against Buffalo.

St. Louis has 10 assists and 13 points during an eight-game point streak. The right wing has at least one assist in all eight games during the stretch.

Wheeler skated down the slot and put the Jets up 1-0 with 15.2 seconds to go in the second on the rebound of Jim Slater's shot from the top of the left circle. Wheeler hadn't scored a goal in his previous seven games.

Garon made a pad save on Bryan Little's low slot shot, while Pavelec had a similar stop on an in-close shot from NHL goals leader Steven Stamkos during a scoreless first.

Stamkos hit the outside of the post on the rebound after Pavelec stopped St. Louis' shot midway through the second. The Lightning outshot Winnipeg 15-7 in the second.

Winnipeg defenceman Dustin Byfuglien was back in the lineup after missing the previous 16 games because of a knee injury and assisted on Wellwood's goal. Jets centre Alexander Burmistrov also returned after sitting out two games with concussion-like symptoms.

Jets preview

Winnipeg at Florida, 6:30 p.m. TV: TSN-Jets

The Jets (24-22-6) continue their road trip in Florida (23-15-11) after beating Tampa Bay last night. Stephen Weiss scored the game-winner in a 4-2 win over Washington on Wednesday. Weiss is second in scoring on the Panthers with 38 points. Kris Versteeg leads the team with 43, but is day-to-day with the flu.
